

The following are a few typical results of over ninety trials carried out comparing ERADICATE snail and slug killer with other baits available in Australia. The results obtained will in any given situation, depend on a number of factors such as soil moisture, humidity, available food sources and temperature as well as age and species involved. In most cases we have not named the product but distinguished them in terms of their active ingredient. The 1.5 % metaldehyde pellets used may be the most common denoted "dry" or the quality pellet products which have been denoted "Q dry". The 3% and 5% metaldehyde products tested are produced by the pasta process (or wet process) and are denoted "wet". In the first case the approximate price of product per kg has been given. Prices are quite variable depending on location and reseller but we have tried to give our best estimate of the average price.
